

INTEGRATED PEST MANAGEMENT PROGRAMME

What is an Integrated Pest Management Programme (IPMP)?

An IPMP is an ongoing service agreement with Old Bill's Pest Control to ensure a pest free environment. It is designed to exclude, monitor and swiftly deal with any pests which may be present in or around your premises.

The initial stage of any IPMP involves a detailed survey of the premises to identify any pests already present, any potential entry points or any other factors which could attract or sustain pests at the location.

This survey is undertaken by trained Pest Control Technicians not sales personnel. It is free of charge and without obligation.

Who would benefit from an IPMP?

IPMPs are particularly beneficial to business premises and are developed with these in mind. Only on rare occasions would they be appropriate for private dwellings with a history of recurring pest problems.

Why have an IPMP?

The presence of pests within the work place will invariably be detrimental to profitability, productivity, staff moral or customer perception.

In addition, some have the ability to cause costly structural damage to buildings whilst others are capable of spreading pathogens detrimental to human health.

All business owners have legal obligations to control certain types of pests and provide a safe environment for their employees and other persons attending their premises.

Additional legislation applies to all businesses concerned in the production, preparation or sale of food to the public.

What if we already have a pest infestation?

We will deal with any existing infestation prior to the commencement of the IPMP and this would be invoiced separately. Any further activity arising during the term of the IPMP would be swiftly identified and prevented from becoming established as part of the service agreement.
